Perspective plan for Indian Navy

1286. SHRI RAMDAS AGARWAL: Will the Minister of DEFENCE be pleased to state:

(a) whether Government are aware of the need for a perspective plan by the Navy in view of induction of sophisticated aircraft, missiles and submarines in the neighbourhood;

(b) whether Government propose to allot more funds to research and development so that our country could keep pace with the latest technology development indicating funds allotted during 1996-1997 as compared to 1995-96; and

(c) whether iundigenously developed weapons including 'SANGRAHA' would be inducted into the Navy by 1998 as well as introduction of torpedoes, sensors and simulators etc; if so, the details thereof?

(d)THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF DEFENCE (SHRI N.V.N. SOMU): (a) Yes, Sir.

(b) The requirement of funds for Research & Development is worked out in consultation with the Department of Research & Development (DRDO) and is projected to the Ministry of Finance for their consideration, keeping in view the overall availability of resources, national security and the demands of other sectors of the economy. The funds allocated to Defence R&D for the year 1995-96 and 1996-97 are Rs. 1358.60 and Rs. 1408.62 crores respectively.

(c) A 10-year national mission for enhancing self-reliance in Defence Systems has been launched, which aims at meeting 70% of annual acquisitions of state-of-art defence systems from indigenous sources by 2005 AD.

The programme 'SANGRAH' involves delivering different variants of EW systems to Indian Navy for different platforms. The first of these variants is likely to be inducted in the Services in 1998.

A Task Force has been set up to pursue the acquisition of priority requirements of systems and weapons for the Navy in order to meet the threat posed by the recent acquisitions of hardware by our neighbour. The Task Force has identified a number of steps as counter-measures against these acquisitions.
